DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicants response to the Office action mailed 5/30/04 is acknowledged (paper filed 11/3/04). In the amendment filed therein all the previous claims were cancelled and new claims 50-72 were presented for consideration. The new claims have been considered and are restricted below:

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 50-70, are drawn to a method of determining holo-TCII via an immobilized cobalamin and a specific binding ligand (immobilization not required), apo-TCII is removed or unable to bind the specific binding ligand, classified in class 436, subclass 501 for example.
- II. Claim 71, is drawn to a method of determining holo-TCII via an immobilized cobalamin, bound apo-forms are remove, and the sample is contacted with an immobilized specific ligand for TCII or holo-TCII, classified in class 435, subclass 7.92 for example.
- III. Claims 50 and 72, are drawn to a method of determining holo-TCII via an immobilized cobalamin, an immobilized specific binding ligand for TCII or holo-TCII, and a non-immobilized ligand wherein the assay reagents are measured in a competition assay, classified in class 435, subclass 7.93 for example.

3. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Art Unit: 1641

The method inventions of I, II, and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have effects and modes of operation. The method of invention I utilize an immobilized cobalamin and a specific binding ligand (not immobilized) and do not require the removal of apo-TCII forms in the reaction. However, the method of invention II uses an immobilized specific ligand and removes all bound apo-forms from the sample. The method of invention III is further different because it employs an additional non-immobilized ligand in a competition assay.

Therefore, the methods detect distinct and diverse effects and utilize diverse reagents therefore the inventions are diverse and distinct (different method limitations). They each require separate search and consideration with respect to the prior art and are therefore subject to restriction.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Please note that the classifications in the restriction are illustrative only and do not represent all the classes and subclasses which must be searched for each invention; nor is the search limited to issued US patents, but rather includes foreign patents and applications as well as literature searches.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for all the groups is not totally inclusive, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. A telephone call was made to Richard E. Fichter (26,382) on 4/14/05 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(I).
